Union Index .... A

Foreword

The BC Labour Directory is an annual publication of the Policy and Legislation Branch of the Ministry of Skills Development and Labour which provides contact information for unions and collective bargaining organizations in the province.

Information for this publication is obtained directly from labour organizations in British Columbia. Every effort is made to obtain accurate and up-to-date information. The reliability of the information depends on the accuracy of the respondents.

In particular, statistics are gathered from organizations regarding union membership. These should be used with caution as many are estimates and data are not gathered by all organizations at the same time of the year. In some cases figures were not provided and data from the previous edition of the BC Labour Directory was used. Many organizations do not keep separate statistics for the number of women members.

Particular attention is drawn to the union index at the end of the publication. Since some unions have locals with distinct names, and some unions are known by short names or acronyms, this index is included to serve as a finding guide.

We wish to thank all those who co-operated during the gathering of the information that went into the preparation of the BC Labour Directory. In the event that errors or omissions are discovered, it would be appreciated if they were brought to our attention.

UNION MEMBERSHIP SUMMARY - 2001

In 2001, trade union membership in British Columbia as reported to the Ministry of Skills Development and Labour increased to 594,070 members. This total represented a 0.6% increase from 2000. The overall proportion of the provincial work force belonging to unions was estimated at 30.4%. Although the overall ratio of union membership to total employment has been stable for the past few years, it is still lower than the average ratio between 1950 and 1990. The unionized portion of the work force since 1986 has fallen to the levels of the early 1940's. This is mainly a result of the slow growth in the work force in the highly organized primary and manufacturing industries in the province coupled with rapid expansion in the less traditionally unionized service sector of the economy.

Changes

- The Aircraft Operations Group Association has changed its name to Canadian Federal Pilots Association.
- The International Ladies' Garment Workers Union (ILGWU) and the former Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers' Union (ACTWU), affiliated as UNITE British Columbia Joint Council with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UBCJA) as of December 1, 2000.
- Public Service Alliance of Canada Union of Public Works' Employees has changed its name to Government Services Union.

Deleted from the Directory

- College Institute Educators Association: Local 13 (decertified)
- Canadian Union of Public Employees: Locals 479, 2924, 3495, 3849, 3999-16, 3999-24, 3999-28, 3999-29, 3999-35
- International Longshore and Warehouse Union: Locals 503 and 504
- Professional Institute of the Public Service: Prince Rupert Branch
- Public Service Alliance of Canada: Canadian Union of Labour Employees
- Public Service Alliance of Canada: Supply and Service Union
- Union of Needletrades, Industrial and Textile Employees: Local 1484 (ceased to exist in June 2000)

Mergers

- British Columbia Teachers' Federation: School Districts #12 and #13 amalgamated to form Local #51 (Boundary).
- United Steelworkers of America: Lodge 1241 merged with Local 721.
- Canadian Union of Public Employees: Local 4177 merged with Local 3757.
- Canadian Union of Public Employees: Airline division Local 4002 is now part of the Teamsters.
- International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers: Locals 344 and 2203 merged with Local 993.
- Union Workers' Union: Correction to the introduction in the 1999 edition of the BC Labour Directory - the Union Workers' Union merged with Local 467 of the CEP, not with local 15 of CUPE.

Twenty-four trade unions in the province had a membership in excess of 5,000 in 2000 - these are listed in Table 2. Few significant changes were experienced by the major trade unions with respect to their membership. However, there were significant increases in the memberships of the following unions: British Columbia Government Employees Union, Christian Labour Association of Canada, Health Sciences Association, and National Automobile, Aerospace, Transportation and General Workers Union of Canada (CAW), and significant losses in the memberships of the following unions: Canadian Union of Public Employees, Industrial Wood and Allied Workers of Canada (IWA-Canada), International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, and United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the United States and Canada.

The BC Labour Directory no longer contains tables reflecting gender breakdown. Many unions do not collect membership statistics by gender and, as a result, the ministry is no longer confident that those tables provide an accurate reflection of true female membership in BC. When numbers of women members have been provided by unions, they appear in the directory listing.

Important Note to Table 1

Beginning with the 2000 BC Labour Directory, we changed certain statistics used to create Table 1 due to two changes in the statistics published by Statistics Canada. These statistical changes have the effect of revising downward the estimated percentage of the workforce that is unionized. For example, under the new approach, the 1999 estimate is revised to 31.1% compared to the 36.2% figure published in the 1999 BC Labour Directory. Because of this impact on the estimated percentage of unionized workers, the ministry wants to ensure that our readers fully understand the following two changes made by Statistics Canada and their impact on Table 1.

1. "Paid Workers" Replaced by "Total Employment":

   Statistics Canada eliminated its figures on "paid workers" in the province and replaced these with figures on the "total employment" in the province. The old "paid workers" figures included anyone who was an employee as well as self-employed individuals who did not employ any employees. The new "total employment" figures include separate figures on the number of employees and the number of self-employed individuals. However, they do not distinguish between self-employed individuals who do and do not employ other employees.

   The ministry feels that of the two alternatives now available, it is more appropriate to use the "total employment" figure that includes all self-employed individuals because this is more consistent with the union membership data collected by the ministry. Many BC workers in the forest, film, construction and other sectors are union members even though their labour market status according to Statistics Canada methodology is self-employed.

2. Revised Population Figures:

   Statistics Canada also revised upwards all of its historical data series based on updated population figures from the latest Census of Canada. This resulted in changes in the previously published official estimates of "paid workers" and "total employment" and required the ministry to revise the historical series published in Table 1 before 2000, rather than simply changing approaches from 2000 forward.

These two changes together have the effect of increasing the estimated size of the BC workforce. When the higher estimated workforce is compared to the number of union members, it has the result of reducing the estimated portion of the workforce that is unionized. The following table summarizes the impact of these statistical changes.

Summary Table: Percent of Workforce Unionized

	Revised "Total Employment" Series (new approach)	Previously Published "Paid-Workers" Series (old approach)
1991	32.9%	36.4%
1992	32.4%	36.3%
1993	31.4%	35.7%
1994	30.6%	34.9%
1995	30.4%	34.8%
1996	30.3%	34.8%
1997	29.9%	34.9%
1998	30.9%	36.2%
1999	31.1%	36.2%
